Barcelona, 1st September 2014

Prof. Martí Casadesús Fa, director, as the representative of the Agència per a la Qualitat del Sistema Universitari de Catalunya, of the one part and

Dr. Iring Wasser, Managing Director, as the representative of the Accreditation agency specialising in undergraduate degree programmes in Engineering, Computer Science, Natural Sciences and Mathematics, of the other part

Hereby mutually recognise each other as having sufficient legal capacity to execute this framework partnership agreement and to enter into a binding agreement as representatives of their respective institutions, and

Agree that

1. The Agència per a la Qualitat del Sistema Universitari de Catalunya, hereinafter AQU Catalunya, is the primary instrument for the promotion and assurance of quality in the university system in Catalonia. The objective of AQU Catalunya is the assurance, accreditation and certification of quality in the universities and other higher education institutions in Catalonia (courses, faculty staff, faculties and services), in accordance with articles 139 and 140 of Act 1/2003, 19 February, concerning the universities in Catalonia, respectively.

The Accreditation agency specialising in undergraduate degree programmes in Engineering, Computer Science, Natural Sciences and Mathematics, hereinafter ASIIN, is a registered association in accordance with the law of the Federal Republic of Germany. ASIIN is supported by many organisations that consider the quality of university education to be a core issue, including university associations, applied science university associations, professional bodies of experts, profession-related organisations, industrial and business associations and trade unions.

2. AQU Catalunya is a founder and current full member of the European Association for Quality Assurance in Higher Education (ENQA), and is registered with the European Quality Assurance Register for Higher Education (EQAR). It is a member of the International Network for Quality Assurance Agencies in Higher Education (INQAAHE), REACU (the national body that brings together all higher education QA agencies in Spain) and the European Consortium for Accreditation (ECA). It was the first QA agency in Europe to be ISO-certified.

ASIIN is a full member of the European Association for Quality Assurance in Higher Education, and it is registered with the European Quality Assurance Register for Higher Education. It is also listed in the INQAAHE database on Guidelines of Good Practice.

3. Both ASIIN and AQU Catalunya have participated in national and European projects on quality in higher education from an early stage in their development and have been involved in the coordination of the European and international organisations in their role as members.

The two entities consider the application of external quality assurance (QA) mechanisms designed specifically for activities to internationalise higher education to be of strategic importance. This aspect should uphold the strategies of European universities, as well as project and enhance their status beyond the European Higher Education Area, in compliance with the ESG.

4. Within the context of the European Higher Education Area, in addition to promoting the mobility of students, academic staff and graduates, greater recognition is given to the activities of quality assurance agencies in other countries.

ASIIN and AQU Catalunya consider one of the mainstays of the European standards (ESG) is that QA bodies also comply with the same standards in the internationalisation of their activities to ensure their reliability for European universities as a whole.

Bearing in mind the above, the two entities are interested in establishing a framework for collaboration and action to be established through specific collaborative agreements in the areas that refer to the internationalisation of quality assurance; impetus for QA procedures that lead to the multiple recognition and integration of their review and evaluation work; encouragement to the participation of international experts in these procedures; the exchange of staff between the two agencies in these procedures; and the exchange of experience in review work and methodological development in quality assurance, accreditation and certification procedures.

Having regard to the above, the two parties agree to enter into this Framework Agreement according to the following
